SENSORY MOTOR INTEGRATION. Sensory motor integration refers to a relationship between the sensory system (nerves) and the motor system (muscles). Also, it refers to the process by which these two systems (sensory and motor) communicate and coordinate with each other. Sensory motor integration skills are developed during the period of growth from birth to about age 7.

Sensory Integration theory teaches us that the vestibular system can have the greatest impact on both the modulation of sensory input as well as the development of all types of skills. The vestibular system is related to the regulation of muscle tone, balance, motor control, postural control, visual space perception, visual-motor control, auditory language skills and attention.
